DENTISTS FOR THE ARMY

General Otis Says His Soldiers' Teeth Need Attention.

The Secretary of War Approves a Plan to Ask Congress for an Appropriation to Send Dental Surgeons to the Philippines—One to Be Detailed to Each Regiment There.

A mail report received from General Otis contains an alarming statement regarding the troops in the Philippines, which will receive prompt attention from Congress. The recommendations of Adjutant General Corbin, approved already by the Secretary of War, are followed out. General Otis says that the teeth of nearly every man in the islands are in bad stages of decay, and recommends that a number of dentists be sent from the United States to look after the molars and the grinders of the fighting men in the Philippines.

He states that after a careful investigation, he finds that a year of life in the tropics, living on army rations, has almost completely ruined nearly 50 per cent of the teeth, while those of the remaining soldiers are in various bad stages of decay.

Adjutant General Corbin has discovered that there is no way by which dentists can be sent to the Philippines to look after the teeth of the men, unless Congress provides for such appointments. They cannot be sent as medical surgeons, with the rank of captain or major, because the law expressly limits the number of surgeons, and there are not enough surgeons to supply the medical demand in the Philippines. Adjutant General Corbin therefore recommended that the matter be submitted to Surgeon General Sternberg of the United States Army, who has replied to Secretary Root heartily endorsing the project to appoint dentists to the army, one to be attached to every regiment, and perhaps more, if necessary.

"I am of the opinion," writes Surgeon General Sternberg, "that the appointment of dentists to the army is an absolute necessity. There should be some systematic way by which the teeth of every enlisted man should be inspected at least once a year, and preferably once in six months. There are few civilians who permit their teeth to be neglected for so long a period as six months. The condition of the teeth is reflected in the physical condition of the individual. If the teeth are bad, a man much, or do not perform their functions properly, and this is a serious matter. I strongly endorse the proposition, and suggest that one dental surgeon, with the rank of major, be appointed for each regiment."

A bill has therefore been drawn by the direction of the Secretary of War which it is believed will be passed by Congress within a few weeks, possibly days. The bill provides that the Surgeon General of the Army, with the approval of the Secretary of War, shall employ and appoint dental surgeons to serve the officers and enlisted men in the Regular and Volunteer Army, in the proportion of one dental surgeon to every 1,000 men in the said army.

These dental surgeons shall be employed as contract dental surgeons, under the terms and conditions applicable to army contract surgeons, and shall be graduates of standard medical or dental colleges, trained in the several branches of dentistry, of good moral and professional character, and shall pass a satisfactory professional examination. These examinations will be held in Boston, New York, Washington, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, and possibly elsewhere, as soon as the proposed bill becomes a law. It will then be possible to appoint the dental surgeons immediately, and they will be sent to the Philippines, where so much work awaits them, on the earliest available transports or passenger ships.

There has been some discussion as to what rank the dental surgeons should have. The accepted understanding is that they will get the rank corresponding to that of the medical surgeons—that is, for battalion surgeons, the rank of captain, and for regimental surgeons, the rank of major. There are, however, surgeons attached to the battalions and regiments, while it is proposed to designate dental surgeons on a schedule of one only for each regiment. That would make him rank with the medical regimental surgeon, and he would therefore get a commission as major. The salary of a major in the regular army is approximately $280 a month, or $2,400 a year, with quarters and rations. It will therefore be seen that there will soon be nearly four score new army officers, and that the dental surgeons of the War Department, for which only competent dentists will be eligible.

This will be a good chance for some of the struggling young dentists of the United States. Old established dentists cannot make much more than the probable income of an army dentist, but there may be expected a rush for these coveted appointments that will result in one of the most secure appointments in the volunteer army when the war first broke out. Some dentists will doubtless resent the imputation of being hired by the Government to keep so many teeth good, and one by one month, but professional ethics will doubtless be overcome by the prospect of travel, a commission in the army, and a good salary.

In General Otis' mail report, the case of Walter Fitzgerald, Company G, Twenty-eighth Infantry, formerly of the Montana Volunteers, is cited. This young man, twenty-three years old, has been in the Philippines for a year and seven months. He was one of the first volunteers to reach Manila after Dewey's victory. Nineteen months in the large, hot, and malarious islands of the Philippines, have resulted in the loss of nearly every tooth in his mouth. It is not the climate alone which is responsible, it is that which undermines the roots of the teeth, while the tropical fever, which has afflicted nearly every volunteer now in the islands, affects the gums of the mouth and loosens the teeth. Grinding on army biscuits, and canned beef naturally doesn't improve the teeth. In the case of Fitzgerald, the teeth did not decay, but they dropped out one by one. This is a common ailment in the Philippines, and the cause generally is the fever. The hospital surgeons are able to relieve the condition of the patient to some extent, but constant care after the fever is necessary to save the teeth.

Consul Warner, at Leipzig, Germany, reported nearly six months ago that the German Emperor had been considering the question of appointing dentists to the army. In view of the large number of troops under arms, and the fact that these troops have never been beyond the German border in years, but have always been near the front, where dentists are available, nothing of a permanent nature has yet been done, though the Kaiser and the German authorities agree that dental surgeons ought to be attached to the German army.

Special Exposition Cigarettes. PARIS, Jan. 19.—New brands of cigarettes are coming out in honor of the exposition. It appears that the cigarettes are ready, but the style of boxes still has not been decided upon, for the French excel in this most important detail—how to put goods on the market in the most attractive manner, and Americans are not slow to appreciate this point. Meantime the Society Against Smoking is sending out circulars showing the ruinous effects of tobacco.

Robbed a Clothesline. A thief invaded the rear yard of Nathaniel Herlihy, of Cleveland Park this morning and escaped with a pair of trousers, a coat, and three pairs of women's and one pair of men's hose.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. De Witt Talmage and the Misses Talmage will not receive today.

The ladies of the Congressional circle who are spending the winter at Willard's will not receive today, but will give a tea Friday, January 25.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ditchcock gave a dinner last night, when their guests were the British Ambassador and Lady Pauncefote, Senator Allison, Senator Aldrich, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Hill, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, Colonel Denby, and General Corbin.

The Southern Relief Society will give its annual charity ball at the National Rifles Armory, January 21.

Mrs. Pettigrew, wife of the Senator from South Dakota, gave a luncheon of twelve covers this afternoon in honor of Mrs. Frye. The guests were all of the Senatorial circle. The ladies invited were Mrs. Gallinger, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Teller, Mrs. Clarence Clark, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Addison Foster, Mrs. Hamsbrough, Mrs. Butler, and Miss Cockrell.

STATISTICS OF NURSERIES.

Plan of the Census Office for a Preliminary Enumeration.

In every case in which data for the Twelfth Census of Agriculture can profitably be gathered prior to the general enumeration in June, it will be done. The special schedules for cranberry culture and for maple sugar production will be followed immediately by a special nursery schedule which has just been received from the printer.

The list of nurseries so far obtained includes about 4,000 separate establishments, but each known nurseryman will receive a list of those doing business in his vicinity, and will be asked to add to or otherwise correct it and return it as soon as possible. It is promptly and thoroughly done, the list will be complete and satisfactory.

The inquiries to be made will relate to the acreage of each nursery; the area under glass; the number of salesmen employed and the amount of their salaries; the number of laborers and their wages; the number of catalogues issued and the cost of advertising; postage, and catalogues; the cost of fertilizers; the publication of the Covert, Chevis, and Sergeant in tight-fitting and box-fitting styles. Most of the jackets are lined with superior grade taffeta all throughout—some are Roman silk lined. The colors are grey, blue, tan, mode, Oxford, and brown, etc.—just what the nurse needs. Some have plain skirts, while others are stylishly trimmed. The costliest custom-made garments couldn't fit better—possess more style or smartness—for these are the acme of excellence—and perfect in detail. There are all sizes—but principally 24, 26, and 28. It will be a great deal of help in getting a new suit tomorrow morning—and you should let nothing prevent your prompt attendance.

But, aside from the wonderfully low price, we wish to lay particular stress upon the garments themselves. They are tailored with all the admirable thoroughness and care that marks this maker's product. The materials are of the most fashionable kind. You've the choice of fine imported Camel's Hair Suitings, Imported English Herringbone, Novelty, finest Homespun, Venetians, Coverts, Chevis, and Sergeant in tight-fitting and box-fitting styles. ## NOTES FROM DAWSON CITY.

Vice Consul Morrison Sends a Report to the State Department.

A report has just been received by the State Department from Vice Consul Morrison at Dawson City, Mr. Morrison says: "Preparations are being made by the Canadian Government for establishing the winter trail to Bennett, which, owing to an overland cut-off at Fort Selkirk, thence to Lake La Barge, will be 110 miles shorter than the route followed last year. "While Dawson has lost in population during the past summer, it has gained in wealth, and is now a thriving, substantial town. The Yukon council has expended in building roads and trails during the year about $70,000 out of the $175,000 appropriated for the purpose by the Dominion Government. Considerable improvement work has been done on the streets, and $15,000 has been expended on drains and ditches, which has had the effect of improving the sanitary condition of the town. Already many physicians have left Dawson for want of practice, and no less than five private sanitariums have closed on account of lack of patronage.

"The town is now equipped with two steam fire engines, fourteen patent fire extinguishers, one hook-and-ladder truck, two hose carts, and 6,000 feet of hose, and has a paid fire department of twenty men. A working head of steam is kept on the engines at all times.

"The 16 per cent royalty on the season's output this last summer was $700,000; last year, the total collected was $490,000. The output this year is generally estimated at $15,000,000; last year it was less than $12,000,000. The introduction of steam hoists, steam boats, and other time and labor saving machinery on all the creeks has practically ushered in a new era in the working of the mines and should produce astonishing results. The new telegraphic communication with the rest of the world, capital is fast following on the heels of the prospector, and the outlook for the coming season is most promising.

"The excitement caused by the reports of the phenomenal richness of Cape Nome has not by any means abated. Many will attempt to make the trip this winter down the river, which is a foolhardy undertaking, considering the dangers to be encountered and the distance to be covered over the ice and snow.

"It is generally admitted, however, that after the river opens the route to Nome by way of Skagway, thence down the lake and rivers past Dawson and on to St. Michael, is the most practical and safest. The spring freshets have driven the ice out of the Yukon River and away from the shore line between St. Michael and Cape Nome fully one month before the moving of the pack ice in the Behring Sea, which has to clear away before steamers can venture along the coast to Cape Nome."

DYING, HE FORGAVE.

A Boy Says He Was to Blame for His Injuries.

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 19.—John Crawford, of 613 Roberts Street, this city, would have been eleven years old today had he lived, but a brief throw by a young companion fatally hurt him, and he died yesterday. Last Thursday John and some companions were playing Indians. One of the boys had a hook on a stick, which he jabbed at Crawford, catching it in and tearing his trousers. This made Crawford angry, and he thrashed the youngster, who said nothing but went into a nearby alley, and securing half a brick, threw it at Crawford with all his strength. The missile struck Crawford in the pit of the stomach. He was helped home, and by next morning he had recovered sufficiently to attend school. By Saturday, however, he was very ill, and finally peritonitis developed, terminating fatally.

Only a few minutes before he died the lad became conscious and said to his mother: "Don't be so hard on me. It was all my fault, as I jumped into him first and he isn't to blame."

Killed a Joker. ASHTABULA, Ohio, Jan. 19.—D. J. Connell, the marshal of Painesville, was driving home shortly before daylight when three men met him in a tunnel near the city. One told him to halt. Connell drew his revolver and fired, and the man fell dead. It was then discovered that the victim was William Weinrebner, a well-known resident of Painesville.

TOO MANY CIGARETTES.

An Heir to a Fortune Suddenly Stricken Blind.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—Lewis E. Bulkley, heir to a large fortune, whose recent attempt to elope with a factory girl was frustrated, has been suddenly stricken blind. According to physicians the loss of sight was due primarily to excessive use of cigarettes.

Bulkley came into fame by wearing broad bands of purple velvet around the bottoms of his trousers and the sleeves and collar of his coat.

He was standing at the entrance of a cigar store when a film came over his eyes. In a short time his sight was gone.

A TUGBOAT DESTROYED.

The Crew of the Daylight Driven Into the Water.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The tugboat Daylight was totally destroyed by fire early this morning, and the members of the crew had narrow escapes from death, being forced to leap from the blazing boat at College Point, when flames were discovered in the engine room. Efforts to fight the fire were made by the crew, but without success, and in a few minutes the vessel was ablaze from stem to stern. The captain realized that the only thing to do was to try to reach land, and he headed the tug toward College Point.

In the bow of the boat the crew was gathered, while the captain remained in the pilot-house. Before land could be reached the boat was burning so fiercely that it was impossible for the men to remain on her. Acting under the captain's order the crew jumped overboard, one after the other, the captain last, and swam ashore toward the beachland landing. The boat was totally destroyed. Her owners are the Williams Towing Company of 160 Summit Street, South Brooklyn.

A SUGAR BEET PLANT.

Interest in the Proposal to Erect One at Frederickburg.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Jan. 19.—G. W. Koerner, State Commissioner of Agriculture, has been here conferring with leading citizens in reference to sugar-beet culture. He takes a deep interest in the proposed establishment of a sugar-beet plant here, and is now in Orange county on a similar mission. All of the surrounding counties are within the section capable of growing beets of a large percentage of sugar, as shown by tests indicated by a map in the last report of the commissioner of agriculture just published.

Mr. J. B. Bayler, a wealthy citizen of Washington, who owns 2,000 acres of land in Caroline county about twenty miles from this city, has had beets raised on the property analyzed by Prof. Wiley, head chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture, and they showed a very high percentage of sugar. Mr. Bayler is making enquiries about the plant here and will probably seed a large acreage in beets.

Military Companies Disbanded. CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 19.—Orders have been issued from the adjutant general's office mustering out Company B, Second Infantry, West Virginia National Guard, of Basile, and Company F, First Infantry, West Virginia National Guard, of Fairmont. The cause of the disbandment is that a number of the members have enlisted in the United States volunteer service, thus causing the companies to fall below the required number of men to hold together as organizations. These companies are being disbanded during the Spanish-American war.
